Greetings,

I just read that there is a move afoot to declare first class mail proper notification of some legal problem. The subject relates to the photo radar bill collection and their eventual demise.

We do not even review commercially addressed mails because of the enormous volume of junk mail; we maintain a garbage container next to our mailbox to save the effort. And for large portions of the year, we are not even here. To formally dun us by mail for anything, is so grossly against any logic. This request to change OUR laws to allow some company to simplify their processes violates us.

Please do not let this company, RediFlex, run our state! Yes, they found some shill to formally request the change to improve their profit. Shame on anyone who would even think of such a thing.

Sincerely,

Jeff Ahrens

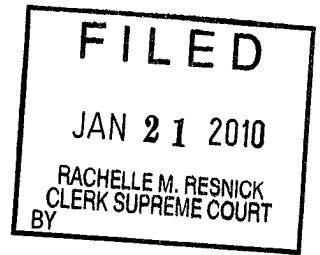

cc: Governor Janet Brewer

Editor,

I just read your article about the welcomed elimination of the photo radar camera use by the DPS. It was well written but errors degrade the its value. Saying that 300 communities use the Rediflex system like the Arizona DPS doesn't make sense. Communities usually desire specific objectives (stop light violations, school zones, etc.) rather than massive state wide speed control. Arizona is the only state to install the state wide Rediflex system.

Our previous Governor and her friend at Rediflex, Nancy Finley, just decided on a whim to install it everywhere. The current Governor doesn't like it. And it should be noted that the Rediflex/Arizona contract will die off in September, 2010 - without penalty! Since the normal attentive driver is seldom involved in an accident, why penalize all those who have a tedious drive to and from boring jobs!

Since our ex Governor is now Homeland Security Chief who seems to have no idea who enters the US, maybe she could put up her "Photo Enforcement" signs in all our ports of entry!

ps: Remember when Tommy Thompson, the guy with multiple "defective speedometer violations" was elected to govern Wisconsin; he fired half the Wisconsin State Patrol.
