Petition

We are members of the boards of directors of community associations, or homeowners associations (HOAs). We represent HOAs of various sizes and demographics in Arizona. Our community associations were created for the purpose of managing, maintaining, and improving our communities. Our HOAs are governed by corporation bylaws and Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CC&Rs), which by law must be included in the closing documents for any home sold in an association-governed community.

The CC&Rs authorize our HOAs to collect assessments from the homeowners within our communities; the CC&Rs also authorize our HOAs to record notices of claims of lien for unpaid assessments. We regularly delegate through management contracts the responsibility for preparing, signing, and filing notices of assessment liens to management companies. Based on our experience, we have found that it costs HOAs significantly more to have lawyers to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens. Management companies have performed these lien functions for HOAs for decades in Arizona without any problems.

The current economic climate – with unprecedented numbers of foreclosures and homeowners facing economic hardships – has negatively impacted the financial state of HOAs and their ability to carry out their purpose. This, in turn, has a negative impact on the property values in our communities. It is more important than ever that HOAs have an efficient and cost-effective means of compelling residents to pay assessments in a timely fashion. As individual board members, we support the proposed change to Rule 31(d) of the Arizona Rules of Supreme Court affirming the ability of management companies to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens on behalf of HOAs.

Based on our experience, we have found that it costs HOAs significantly more to have lawyers to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens. Management companies have performed these lien functions for HOAs for decades in Arizona without any problems.

The current economic climate – with unprecedented numbers of foreclosures and homeowners facing economic hardships – has negatively impacted the financial state of HOAs and their ability to carry out their purpose. This, in turn, has a negative impact on the property values in our communities. It is more important than ever that HOAs have an efficient and cost-effective means of compelling residents to pay assessments in a timely fashion. As individual board members, we support the proposed change to Rule 31(d) of the Arizona Rules of Supreme Court affirming the ability of management companies to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens on behalf of HOAs.

Petition

We are members of the boards of directors of homeowners associations (HOAs). We represent HOAs of various sizes and demographics in Arizona. Our associations were created for the purpose of managing, maintaining, and improving our communities. Our HOAs are governed by corporation bylaws and Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CC&Rs), which by law must be included in the closing documents for any home sold in an association-governed community.

The CC&Rs authorize our HOAs to collect assessments from the homeowners within our communities; the CC&Rs also authorize our HOAs to record notices of claims of lien for unpaid assessments. We regularly delegate through management contracts the responsibility for preparing, signing, and filing notices of assessment liens to management companies. Based on our experience, we have found that it costs HOAs significantly more to have lawyers to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens. Management companies have performed these lien functions for HOAs for decades in Arizona without any problems.

We are members of the boards of directors of homeowners associations (HOAs). We represent HOAs of various sizes and demographics in Arizona. Our associations were created for the purpose of managing, maintaining, and improving our communities. Our HOAs are governed by corporation bylaws and Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CC&Rs), which by law must be included in the closing documents for any home sold in an association-governed community.

The CC&Rs authorize our HOAs to collect assessments from the homeowners within our communities; the CC&Rs also authorize our HOAs to record notices of claims of lien for unpaid assessments. We regularly delegate through management contracts the responsibility for preparing, signing, and filing notices of assessment liens to management companies. Based on our experience, we have found that it costs HOAs significantly more to have lawyers to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens. Management companies have performed these lien functions for HOAs for decades in Arizona without any problems.

The current economic climate – with unprecedented numbers of foreclosures and homeowners facing economic hardships – has negatively impacted the financial state of HOAs and their ability to carry out their purpose. This, in turn, has a negative impact on the property values in our communities. It is more important than ever that HOAs have an efficient and cost-effective means of compelling residents to pay assessments in a timely fashion. As individual board members, we support the proposed change to Rule 31(d) of the Arizona Rules of Supreme Court affirming the ability of management companies to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens on behalf of HOAs.

Our associations were created for the purpose of managing, maintaining, and improving our communities. Our HOAs are governed by corporation bylaws and Covenants, Conditions and Restrictions (CC&Rs), which by law must be included in the closing documents for any home sold in an association-governed community.

The CC&Rs authorize our HOAs to collect assessments from the homeowners within our communities; the CC&Rs also authorize our HOAs to record notices of claims of lien for unpaid assessments. We regularly delegate through management contracts the responsibility for preparing, signing, and filing notices of assessment liens to management companies. Based on our experience, we have found that it costs HOAs significantly more to have lawyers to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens. Management companies have performed these lien functions for HOAs for decades in Arizona without any problems.

The current economic climate – with unprecedented numbers of foreclosures and homeowners facing economic hardships – has negatively impacted the financial state of HOAs and their ability to carry out their purpose. This, in turn, has a negative impact on the property values in our communities. It is more important than ever that HOAs have an efficient and cost-effective means of compelling residents to pay assessments in a timely fashion. As individual board members, we support the proposed change to Rule 31(d) of the Arizona Rules of Supreme Court affirming the ability of management companies to prepare, sign, and file notices of assessment liens on behalf of HOAs.
